Big Time Hard Time Dance

The Hard Time Dance given by the Wrangell Photoshow Thanks-giving Eve was a very decided success. The many ragged customs there attributed to the enjoyment of the evening. The prizes were awarded to Mrs. W. J. Pigg and Mr. J. G. Grant as the most ragged dressed couple and to Mrs. Hood and Mr. Chas. Lynch as the best waltzers.

Everyone attending spent a very enjoyable evening and the comical customs of Messrs. Woonworth and Purcel caused many hearty laughs.

Moslem Rebels At Tangier

Berlin, Dec. 2.—The Politiken reports that the suburbs of Tangier, Morocco, are in the hands of Moslem rebels. French troops, the newspaper says, are being sent to Morocco.

Clatawa Brings oad Fish

The Clatawa came in Tuesday from a trip to the fishing grounds and brought back 11 boxes of fine salmon for C. M. Coulter. The fishing here is holding our remarkable well and all of the fishermen are making good wages.

Notice To Slidders

There have been several complaints made by citizens in regards to the unsafe condition of the side walks as a result of throwing water thereon by young people of the town in their desire to facilitate sleighing.—In the interest of public safety, this must be stopped.

Notice To The Fire Boys

Will Fish Shrimp Out Of Wrangell

Fishing for shrimp out of Wrangell is going to be the latest addition to our growing fishing fleet. The first of the week a small steamer, the "Sis" came into port after being out several weeks prospecting over this section of the country in attempt to locate these shrimp beds, and the best indications of them in paying quantities that was found near the south end of Wrangell Narrows only a few miles from Wrangell.

The Sis is under the command of Capt. Libby who is half owner in the vessel. The prospecting for the shrimp is being done under the supervision of Chas. Chase, a man who fished for shrimp on Puget Sound for several years before coming to Alaska, and a man that knows that end of the game from A to Z.

In speaking of the shrimp beds here Mr. Chase has to say, "This part of Alaska is all one great shrimp bed, although of course the better the place adapted for them the larger quantities you find. We have been on this prospecting trip for several weeks, going over all of the Ketchikan district and here. In the Ketchikan district we found the largest shrimp that I ever seen the most of them measuring over eight inches from their eyes to their tail but we could not find them in quantities enough to pay but over near Wrangell Narrows I think we have found just what we are looking for, we made several trap halls and got a good bunch each time of fine uniform spot shrimp about five and a half inches long and the finest that I ever saw. There is no reason why his business cannot be made to pay the shrimp are there and better than ever caught on the Sound in a few years they will be catching them in Alaska and it will be a lasting industry for they cannot kill them off like they are the fish. This boat will start fishing as soon as one of us can make a trip to Seattle to get some necessary equipment, the market is there now and Wrangell shrimp will get the top price."

The new company expects to get to fishing for the market in about two weeks. Several years ago shrimp were taken from these waters but for some reason the fishing for them stopped and has never been resumed until now. There is no doubt that the new undertaking will prove a success and is the true beginning of another of Alaskan products taken from our waters.

Mrs. Hyland Returning Home

Mrs. Hyland is being accompanied home by a brother of her deceased husband, and they will return over the trail from Carcross.

HOW TO LIVE.

Life lengthened to its fullest is short enough, and the man who lives it out on straight lines, giving lift for lift and lick for lick, not over-joyous in periods of personal success and achievement nor yet too despondent when the game goes against him, keeping in mind always the supreme value of the average in all things, will leave the world still so much in love with it that he would like to linger yet for awhile to work and dream in its pleasant and fruitful pastures.

Coal Made in Laboratory.

What geologists say nature took millions of years to produce, a German scientist has accomplished in hours in his laboratory. He has made hard coal from peat and even from cellulose, which is the chief part of the solid framework of plants, by heating it in a specially constructed apparatus under great pressure. At a temperature of 500 degrees F. cellulose was converted into coal in sixty-four hours and at 644 degrees in eight hours.
From data obtained by a series of such experiments the scientist has deduced the length of time necessary for the formation of coal beds in nature, and his result tallies closely with that calculated by geologists from entirely different considerations.

Waterproofing Blocks of Wood.

A good way to harden small blocks of wood used in the laboratory is to boil them in olive oil for five to ten minutes, says the Scientific American. Not only are the blocks hardened, but they may be used under water, as the process makes them waterproof to a great degree. It is desired to be used for collecting gasses, but is for supporting bell jars under water—like they be made further waterproof by first boiling them in paraffin, then in olive oil.
This makes a wooden block hard and waterproof and every way well adapted for use in pneumatic trouble.

A Heat Proof Bronzing Fluid.

Bronzing fluids as ordinarily made do not stand very high temperatures.
Where this is desirable use the following mixture: Cut "pear varnish" or any hard varnish with turpentine to the consistency of thin molasses, add 10 per cent of amyl acetate and stir in aluminum powder or other bronzing powder to suit.

A Born Champion.

"I understand your boy has the makings of a champion pugilist."
"I really believe he has. He possively won't fight with anybody he isn't sure he can whip."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

They Often Do.

Teacher—Tommy, you are too great an idler. Do you know what becomes of people who won't work?
Tommy—Yessum. They gets supported by the rest o' the family.— Judge.

Suiting Action to Words.

"Why is Reginald capering about in that extraordinary fashion? Has he stubbed his toe?"
"No. He has thought of a good name for a new dance and is trying to invent a new step to fit it."—Exchange.

A Common Delusion.

One of the commonest of delusions and one of the faintest is where a man thinks he's in a hurry.—Puck.

Impossible.

Howell—I had a narrow escape. Powell—You couldn't. You are too fat.— New York Press.

The Bengali Canal.

The longest artificial water course to the world is the Bengali canal, 900 miles in length.

Shoe Shapes.

Shoes were all made the same shape till 1472, when "right" and "left" was manufactured.

"MAY I HAVE THIS DANCE?"

"Oh, not darned stout," said the breezy Chicagoan politely—"only pleasantly so."

An Unfortunate Abolution.

It is an authentic anecdote of Hogarth that he was wont to make certain miniature sketches on his thumbnail to be elaborated at an after time.
A certain dramatist followed the practice. He would write a plot in the same limited space in shorthand. He was once consulted on a new drama by a manager.

"I have it!" the writer exclaimed.
And he immediately marked the picture on his thumbnail. Weeks passed but no play was presented. The manager consulted the author.

"Now, about the piece! It's done, of course. You took it on your thumbnail!"

"To be sure," replied the author "and there it was for some time, but as ill luck would have it, I one morning unfortunately washed my hands!"

Tight Collars.

Writing in the Hospital, London, Dr.
Walford warns everybody against tight collars. He considers it remarkable that no one seems to have noticed or, at any rate, to have laid great stress on the fact that such slight obstacle to the free circulation of the blood through the vessels of the brain may adversely influence the health of those who are in the habit of wearing tightly fitting neckcloths. "The fact appears to be well known to veterinary surgeons, who tell us that neck constriction through badly fitting harness is a causative factor in 'stagners' in horses," says the writer. It seems to be equally well known that dogs suffer a great deal through having to wear tightly fitting collars. Is it too much, then, Dr. Walford asks, to argue that those of us who wear our own collars too tightly buttoned may find in that practice some explanation of symptoms ascribed to other causes?

The Retort Courteous.

"Will you promise to support my daughter in the style to which she is accustomed if I consent to your marriage?" demanded old Skinfint when Dobby made his formal proposal.
"Well, I—I'll promise to be tolerably close with her, Mr. Skinfint," said Dobby, "but, you know, I'm a soft hearted cuss, and I'm afraid she'll wheedle a few things out of me that you were strong enough to refuse her." And, strange to say, from that moment old Skinfint was unalterably opposed to the match.—Judge.

ism being under control of the trigger finger. A bullet fired from it strikes a blow over the biggest game—penetration enough to reach the innermost vital spot. The wonderful in operation and powerful in execution, this rifle is neither complicated in construction nor cumbersome to handle.
